

Example Speech 1: Zero Hunger

Introduction:

Hello, my name is _____ and I will tell you about the second SDG, Zero Hunger. The goal is to end hunger around the world. But what is hunger? First, I will explain the problem of hunger. Next, I will explain where it is a problem, and finally, how we can help.

Main Point 1:

Hunger is when you don't have enough food. Did you know that in 2019, 821 million people around the world were hungry? The UN says that around 135 million people felt "extreme hunger." Extreme hunger means you might die. The UN also says that number will double because of COVID-19.

Main Point 2:

Hunger is a problem in most countries. However, the UN says that Central Africa, the Caribbean, and Southern Asia have the highest number of hungry people. 63% of world hunger is actually in Asia. How did the problem get so big? Some reasons are war and natural disasters. However, the biggest reason is poverty. Poverty means to not have enough money to live.

Main Point 3:

Governments must help those in need, but you can also help. You can help by supporting local farms and markets, reducing food waste, and donating to food banks or global organizations.

Conclusion:

Hunger is a problem that needs a worldwide solution. We all need food to live, but many people don't have enough. This needs to change. Zero Hunger is an important goal, and will help other SDGs too. Remember, change can start with you. Thanks for listening.
